U Prof to Work Under Big Grant

Dr. Frederick Ju, University of New Mexico mechanical engineering professor, will work this year under a $19,650 research grant given by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research.

Dr. Ju will pursue studies of the failure of elastic materials. His work will be mainly analytical with the aim of further developing the mathematical theory of dislocation, and its application in analyzing the failure of engineering materials.

With the aid of Dan Kana, graduate student, Dr. Ju has been working on confirmation of the mathematical theory of photoelasticity experiments, a university spokesman said.

HEAD COLD... SINUS... FLU?

New doctor-style spray unplugs stuffed-up nose and sinuses fast

When you go to a doctor for a head cold, nasal allergy, or congested sinuses, what does he do?

Most likely, he goes right after your stuffiness with a fine-mist nasal spray. And that's what Mentholatum Nasal Mist is—a fine-mist spray, developed by the Mentholatum Laboratories. It gives almost instant relief from sniffing, sneezing and that clogged-up feeling. It helps sinuses drain so you can get well fast. Like many doctors' sprays, Mentholatum Nasal Mist contains:

1. A decongestant to shrink uncomfortable and swollen tissues.

2. A safe, effective antibiotic to kill germs.

3. An antihistamine to relieve sniffing and sneezing.

It's pocket-size; use it anywhere. Safe for anyone, aged 6 and up. Won't sting. Gives faster, more widespread relief than messy drops. Stops harmful mouth breathing that lets cold, dusty, germ-laden air into the lungs. Won't upset digestion as tablets often do. Buy Mentholatum Nasal Mist today. The Mentholatum Company, Buffalo, New York.
